

Life Group Questions (Sunday 3 May)

1. When you think of the book of Genesis, what's the first thing that comes to mind?
2. What do you think the book of Genesis is primarily about?
3. On Sunday I suggested that the book of Genesis answers two essential questions: who is God and who are we. What do you think about that statement?
4. I think it is interesting that the first book of the Bible contains no law. By law I mean normative rules for all people. There are only specific commands to certain people. How does this piece of information change your view of Genesis? Why?
5. Spirituality is a description of our relationship and experience of God. It's not primarily about theology. Genesis tells the stories of people's relationship and experience of God. Have you ever told your whole story of your relationship and experience of God? What do think it would read like?
6. The Genesis stories are very honest, yet very hopeful. How would you feel about such an honest telling of your story? Why?
7. This week, reflect on your story. Perhaps write it down or talk about it with your kids or friends. You might be surprised by what you remember and discover.
